

Five of Cups

Traditional meaning:

This is about handling regret. Yes three cups are spilled – but two are still there. All is not lost. You have to learn from your mistakes and move on.

My Interpretation:

The person is sad. The cloak is a simple, somber one, they are looking down, and they've spilled all the wine. Birds are flying away from desolate, wind-swept grasses. The sky is empty. A card of loss, and it was caused by their own actions.
