

Strength

Traditional meaning:

This is clearly about being strong 😊. It's about inner strength, though – courage, determination, perseverance, and the mental ability to hang in there despite challenges. You have the strength. You can do it. You will triumph.

My Interpretation:

This man is steady, prepared, and whatever comes he will face it. His sword is at his side, and his shield. He has mountains behind him for defense. His loyal dog is there too, with a protective had on. The dog is quick. He has great armor on all the way up his neck. Nothing will get through his defenses.
